

Hans "Corky" Koraeus

Hans lives in Sweden and is the World Ranking Supervisor for ISSA (International Slalom Skateboard Association).

Hans has been working to organize the international slalom skateboard scene, especially through developing the World Ranking system currently used for the international slalom community since early 2000. The World Ranking was an idea not only to motivate slalom skaters around the world to travel, come together and race but also to create a nice historical archive over the international slalom scene as the years go by.

Hans was active in the Swedish Skateboard Association in the 1980s and also served as a judge at some European Championships in the 1980s. As an original flatland freestyle skater, he went over to start skate slalom in the early 1990's. He was also one of the organizers of the cult Swedish Skateboard Summer Camps in the 1980s that invited the world's top elite skaters at the time as trainers and had skaters come together from all over the world at a time when skateboarding was in a weak and sensitive state worldwide.

He is the current owner of a core skate shop in Stockholm (Coyote Grind Lounge). The shop opened in 2005 and celebrates its 10 year anniversary in 2015.
